

Diane Davis Myklegard, volunteer leader of the Julia Davis Park Coalition, was one of fifty nominees for the 2013 Idaho Business Review's Woman of the Year celebrated at a gala event on Tuesday, February 26th. Honorees were recognized for achievements in the field of public, private and charitable business sectors. Since 2006 Diane has worked tirelessly to form a unique collaboration among city officials, service groups, industries and volunteers to raise funds for the park and promote its historical significance.

Kendra Waitley, a member of the Julia Davis Park Coalition, and owner of K1 Event Planning, was also a Woman of the Year nominee.